Bureau of Reclamation Mid-Pacific Region Biological monitoring of Kesterson Reservoir has been conducted since 1987 in order to determine selenium concentrations in abiotic and biotic elements. In 1988, with the drying out of Kesterson and filling of low-lying areas, studies shifted to focus on the upland environment and the ephemeral pools that form during the rainy winter months. Selenium-caused effects to wildlife (such as embryo deformities, reduced egg viability, or mortality) have not been found during those studies although elevated selenium continues to be found in bird eggs and other wildlife. Based on aquatic bird toxicity data, the selenium chemistry data generally indicate a low-level risk of avian reproductive effects. However, due to the generally small numbers of breeding birds present at Kesterson, low-level effects would be difficult to detect. Based on the results of selenium monitoring at Kesterson since 1988, the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation (Reclamation), the Central Valley Regional Water Quality Control Board (RWQCB), U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service), and CH2M Hill in 1995 agreed to change the monitoring program at Kesterson from annual comprehensive monitoring to more focused annual monitoring of selected biota that were judged to be at the highest risk, with more comprehensive sampling of biota every three years. The 1998 sample year was the first year that complete monitoring was conducted after the 1995 decision, and only limited sampling was conducted in 1999 and 2000 (as planned). The next planned comprehensive monitoring is to be conducted in 2001. Figure 1 - 1 shows the Cumulative rainfall for water years (July 1 to June 30) at Kesterson from 1989 through...
