Are there any needs which the State may take the burden of assisting, as Russia for instance has assumed charge of the sale of alcohol, of the construction of railroads, of the working of certain mines? There is no doubt that such needs exist. If they have not been noticed before, if we have not yet dreamed of satisfying them, it is simply because we have not had at our disposition either the immense capital which will now be out of employment, or the quality of labour which the new industries will be able to call upon after the disarmament. It is, of course, the task of specialists to work out the details of the question. But now, looking at the question only in a very superficial manner in its novelty, who does not see, at least in Russia, needs such as roads...
